About herself: Multilingual Tutor and Governess with over 20 years of experience in private households, including Royal and UHNW families across Europe, the Middle East and North Africa.

Specialising in academic support within British and international educational systems, with a focus on children aged 6–16.

Strong emphasis on building structured routines, discipline, independent learning skills and academic responsibility.

Combines classical pedagogical foundations with modern developmental approaches, including Montessori, holistic education and elements of neuroscience-based learning.

Experienced in working with children of different temperaments, including low motivation, attention difficulties and high screen dependency, through consistent structure, clear boundaries and respectful authority.

Experienced in supporting pre-teens and teenagers (7-16), including building academic discipline, improving learning engagement and reducing screen dependency through structured and consistent routines.

Academic Development & British Curriculum Support

Comprehensive academic guidance within British and international educational frameworks, including structured homework supervision, exam preparation and development of independent learning skills.

Experienced in building consistent study routines and fostering accountability for academic results.

Particularly effective in working with pre-teens requiring structure, consistency and academic accountability. Able to take full responsibility for the organisation of the child's academic process in coordination with parents and educators.

Child Development & Educational Psychology

Formal background in child psychology combined with practical experience in behavioural structuring, emotional regulation and communication. Skilled in working with diverse temperaments, including children with ADHD and learning difficulties, through consistency, boundaries and supportive guidance.

International & VIP Household Experience

Proven experience within Royal and UHNW families, requiring discretion, adaptability and high professional standards. Confident in coordinating with schools, tutors and household teams, managing complex schedules and operating effectively in both sole-charge and proxy-parenting roles.

Multilingual & Cultural Education

Multilingual teaching experience with the ability to integrate language learning into daily routines. Supports children's development in international environments through language immersion, cultural awareness and preparation for global education systems.
